

Don't give them cows milk – it gives them the squits! Sooo not nice. Water is fine but if you want to spoil them you can get tins of special kitten milk

Start them off in one room with the litter tray, scratching pole, and a safe cosy place to sleep until they feel it's home, then gradually let them explore the house. But don't let them outside before they are fully vaccinated

Talking of that I have to mention the other V word – yes VET! You need to get them checked over. When they are so little they can get sick pretty quick so don't hang around. Speaking from personal experience, no-one likes going but we know its good for us.

Keep the lid closed on the loo – those little fellas are so curious and bad things can happen. Same goes for the washing machine and tumble dryer.

Don't give them wool or stringy things to play with, they can try eating them and get them stuck in their insides.

A microchip is a great idea too, being so little they can get into places in cars and stuff and not know the way home.

I do my best to speed things up with their education but no sooner have I sorted and adopted out one lot when along comes another load! A girl can only put up with so much sharing of bed/sofa and hoomans.

Please get your barn/companion cats spayed/neutered it would make my life so much easier– Have a care folks!! Time now for a little meditation I think
Love ya Tilly ▪

AH YES, ZENNNNNNN

P.S. Don't forget to keep all us furry guys inside on Halloween later this month. All those scary children, bangs and crashes – brrrrrrrrrr!

RAWR DOG AND CAT NEUTERING DISCOUNT VOUCHERS: for availability contact your nearest participating veterinary practice: Bantry: Fachtna Collins 027 53639; Skibbereen: Castlelands–Hourihanans 028 22211; Dunmanway: Brookpark: 023 884 5777; Castletownbere: Brian Murphy 027 70366

Donations can be made in the RAWR shop, New Street, Bantry; on our web page www.rawr.ie, by going to PayPal and donating to: penny.rawr@yahoo.com or by sending a cheque to Rural Animal Welfare Resources, Snave, Bantry, County Cork.

RAWR IS A REGISTERED CHARITY NUMBER 19607 AND IS RUN ENTIRELY BY VOLUNTEERS